Author Rochelle Forrest is a passionate and spirited holistic health coach dedicated to helping others heal their lives. A Registered Nurse for over 27 years, she holds a Bachelor of Science in Nursing, a Masters in Science in Management, and the most important designation of all, L.E. (Life Experience.) Rochelle recently found one of her childhood drawings. She had painted that she wanted to be a mom, a wife, and a nurse. She had unknowingly made her first vision board when she was five-years-old. This reinforced her belief that acting intuitively is the best way to strengthen our inner guidance system and that reigniting this guidance system is the key to good health. Rochelle, unwittingly and intuitively, started coaching people about their health and lives at her clinic. Eventually, the doctor told her she should start a coaching practice because that was what she was doing!

As part of her dedication to healing, Rochelle became involved in children’s charities. Her book, “Shelley and the Circle of Light,” gave Rochelle a way to fill the hearts and minds of children even as she worked to help support them in more practical ways. A portion of the proceeds from every book is donated to support children in need. www.createhealthnaturally.com.

Kiva Leatherman is the founder and president of the Wise Women Network, which inspires and teaches women to live up to their worth – emotionally, physically, and financially. She is also the host of Contact Talk Radio's "A Woman's Worth." As a speaker, Kiva encourages women to know themselves, to know about their money, and to stop living vicariously through others – to achieve success and happiness on their terms. Kiva was formerly a sales vice president with a major investment firm, where she managed a territory that generated over $100 million in annual sales. Although the investment business was definitely a boys' club, Kiva found a way to succeed with grace, humor, and feminine strength. Her presentations on women and investing laid the groundwork for what eventually became Wise Workshops and her personal mission to ensure that women are in charge of their own money, their own time, and the decisions they make regarding their nutrition and health. She teaches women to create a framework for success, which gives them the power and freedom to live well.

Kiva graduated with degrees in Psychology and Performing Arts from Washington University in St. Louis. She loves teaching women to get their groove on through dance and is a certified fitness trainer. www.wiseworkshops.com
